

Presentation Skills for Leaders

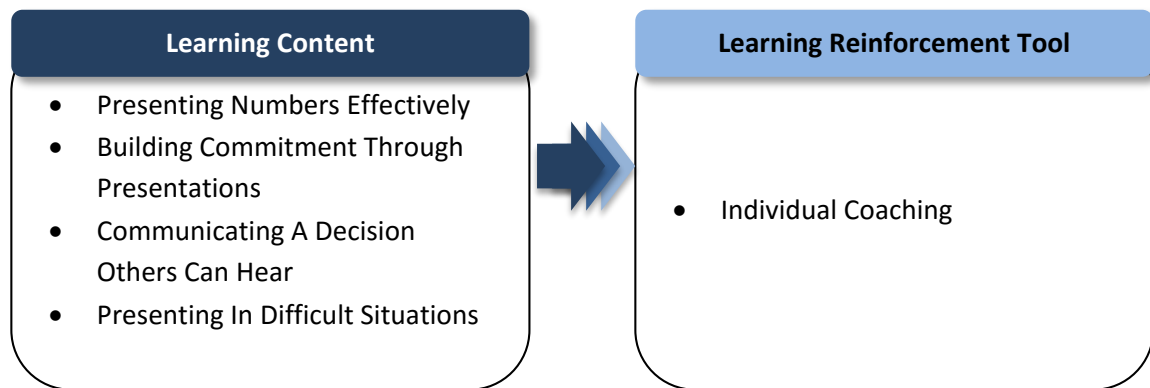

Effective presentation skills play an important role in the success of senior leaders across an organization. A leader's ability to convey their ideas affects their ability to influence inside and outside their organization. It also can influence perceptions about credibility and presence.

This program includes videotaping each participant and debrief on a one-on-one basis. Participants will engage through discussion, activities, and (most importantly) opportunities for individual practice.

Program Outcomes

- Identify personal strengths and areas for development in presentation delivery skills
- Demonstrate effective design and delivery of a key presentation
- Differentiate presentation types and situations
- Adapt presentation style to various situations and circumstances
